This imaginary plane moves with the shooter as he/she moves up and down the range through the course of fire. The 180-degree plane shall be used to guide the shooter(s). The shooter(s) may not break this plane with their firearm muzzle at any time whether they're engaging targets, moving between shooting positions, or performing weapon manipulations (drawing, reloading, clearing malfunctions, etc). Any break in this 180 degree plane will constitute a FIREARM SAFETY INFRACTION. The 180-degree plane reinforces the Second Rule of Firearms Safety: Never Point the Gun at Anything You Don't Want to Shoot.

UPRANGE - A designated area in opposition to Downrange, that generally is at the front/entrance of a Bay or shooting line. It is also behind the 180-degree plane downrange area from the shooter.

DOWNRANGE - The SAFE direction of bullet travel toward a designated impact area/berm. The 180-degree plane shall be factored in the definition of downrage.

HOT (RANGE)- Any firearm that contains live ammunition.

COLD RANGE – A cold range is a range on which all firearms are to be unloaded at all times, unless the shooters are actually standing on the firing line. No live ammunition is contained IN the firearm.
